The sand painting depicted on this year's Hoofbeats cover represents a Navajo wish for health, wealth, and happiness. The corn symbol used in the design represents abundance or wealth. Corn is essential in the life of the Indians, for it is one of their staple foods. The drawing of the cloud symbolizes rain, which is important to the desert-dwelling Indian, who depends on rain to produce his food. The symbol of the sun is also important to the Indian as a source of nourishment for the crops on which his livelihood depends.

Health, wealth, and happiness—not only is that the wish expressed in the cover design, but it is also our wish to you for the years to come. May you succeed in life and achieve everything you undertake.

The native Indians of the Southwest have had considerable influence on the life of this area. They have introduced many of the unusual foods of the Southwest, they have influenced the architectural style widely used in public buildings and homes, and they have originated unique music and a beautiful art, including the distinctively designed jewelry, rugs, and textiles which are admired throughout the world for their craftsmanship. Many Indian words, including the names of cities, rivers, and even the states themselves, have become rooted in the regional vocabulary. Indian religious festivals and gatherings or pow wows play a large part in attracting the tourist trade which is so vital to the economic life of the Southwest. Almost as important to the tourist trade are the "trading posts" which sell Indian-style souvenirs, clothing, and jewelry.

Thus, as the Indians of the Southwest play so large a part in the lives of all of us in Phoenix and Arizona, the theme of Indian art, sandpaintings in particular, is especially appropriate for the 1960 Hoofbeats.

Our auditorium is the hub of many activities at North High. Here many assemblies are held each year. Among these are pep assemblies, which are enjoyed by all students and which promote the high spirit so necessary to the winning of the sporting events. Science assemblies, honor assemblies, talent and holiday assemblies, are also among the many held in the auditorium. Plays, concerts, and civic functions of many kinds also are held there. In use day and night, our auditorium is perhaps the most important building on the campus.

North High, often called an "honor school of the West", has indeed produced many distinguished graduates. As proof of this, a study which has followed the Westinghouse Talent Search winners and thirty-four honorable mentions, has shown that one of the group was awarded a PhD at Baylor, one a PhD at Stanford, and two PhDs at UCLA. Two of the winners received MDs, one at Stanford and one at the University of Mexico. Six other winners are on the teaching staffs of Baylor, California Institute of Technology, Harvard, Stanford, UCLA, and Wellesley.

One of the Westinghouse winners is now a research chemist with the Atomic Energy Commission and another was recipient of a grant from Rockefeller Institute at UCLA and is working at the present time with two Nobel Prize winners.

Numbered among the other graduates of North High are a number now engaged in many professional activities. Among these are seven MDs now practicing in Phoenix, eleven MDs in practice elsewhere, four dentists five engineers and scientists, and five lawyers.

One North High graduate, now an engineering graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is working for her doctorate at MIT. Two PhDs are currently teaching chemistry, one at the University of Arizona and one at the University of Utah. One North High graduate is now a research chemist with General Electric. Another graduated with honors from Barnard and received a fellowship in literature and drama at Cambridge University in England.

As another graduating class leaves North High this year, they leave behind them an admirable record of scholastic achievement, of athletic excellence, of achievements in art, music, and in drama, and of a student government program which has done much for the betterment of the school. Yet, they have a responsibility in that they must uphold the excellent record which past North High graduates have made for themselves in the world. Judging them on past performance, the class of '60 is quite capable of this, and they will add many achievements to this list.

Members of the class of '60 build the snowman, above; meanwhile the students rock the gym at a basketball game, right, a sharp contrast to the quiet hall as it appears between classes.

Each year, on the last day before Christmas vacation, members of the graduating class bring snow from northern Arizona to build a snowman on the steps of the auditorium. This tradition is anticipated by both the senior class and the student body.

After Christmas vacation, school spirit is high during basketball games, especially when our team is winning. Our student body has proven enthusiastic, even when the tides have turned against us for the moment.

Bored of education? — not in the least! The hardworking people who make up the Board of Education consider theirs a very important job. To this capable group falls the task of running our high school system as smoothly and efficiently as possible.

Contrary to popular opinion, education really is a privilege. If we want to keep this privilege, we must maintain the highest standards possible. The members of the Board are doing their best in upholding these standards, and it is truly appreciated.

Today, when there is a great emphasis on education, the work of administrators is becoming increasingly complex. The task of keeping our schools up to the top national standards is quite difficult. These administrators must fix our curriculum to agree with the national ideas; they must also fix it to meet every student's individual needs. Most of the students will agree that the administrative staff of North High has done a fine job of keeping our standards up to that high level that is set for them.

Science

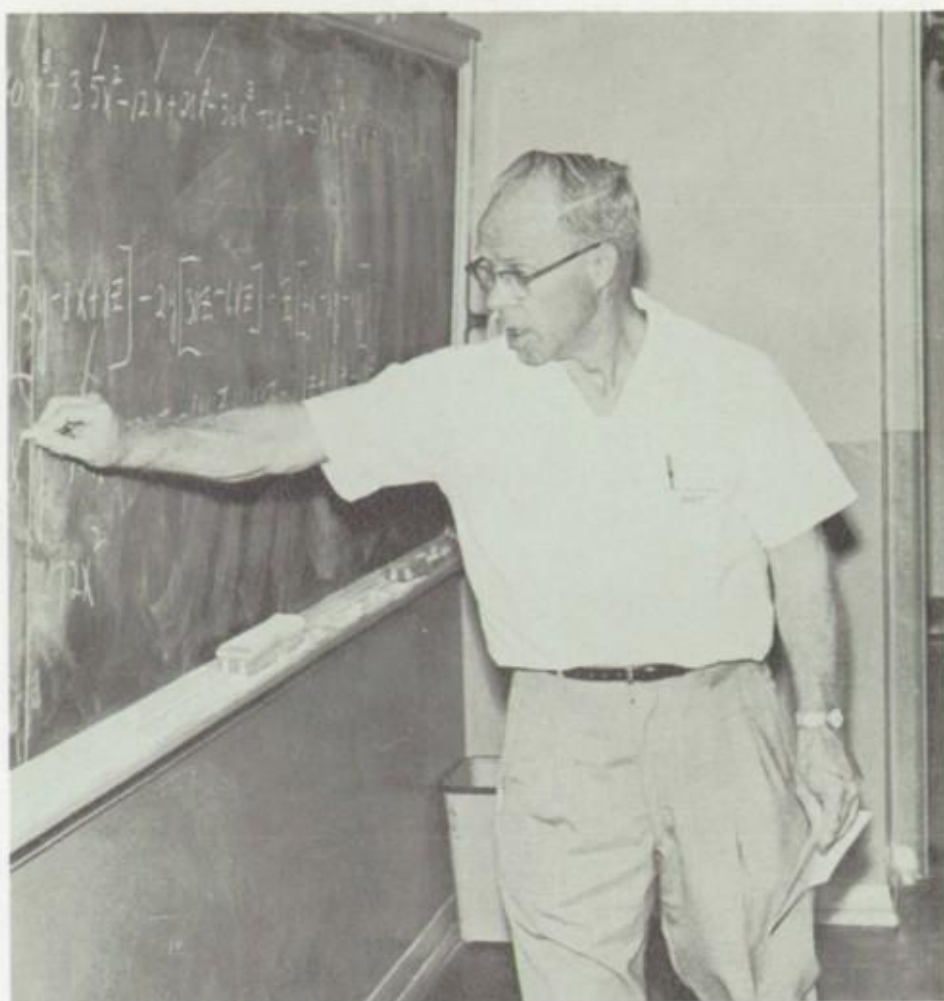

North High's science program is widely acclaimed as one of the finest in the entire nation. Headed this year by Mr. C. A. Brown, the department has had more winners in the national Westinghouse program than any other liberal arts school in America. This record is excelled only by certain technical high schools. In 1959 Mr. Frank Gilleland's physics classes received a piece of solar equipment for being one of the outstanding classes in the United States. Courses from forestry to physics are available.

Biology students look on as Miss Carolyn Huey passes out laboratory specimens for analysis and study.

Mathematics

A solid background of math is one of the important things necessary for a prospective college student. Most colleges and universities now require a minimum of two years of math other than general mathematics for entrance. North High offers a variety of these courses including basic math, first and second year algebra, geometry, solid geometry, and trigonometry. Heading this department is Mr. Herbert Drinkwater, who also finds time to sponsor the Math Club.

English

Of all the courses offered at North High, English is probably one of the most important to the individual student. Being able to speak and write one's own language is an invaluable help in whatever a person might choose to do when he finishes school. English courses include drama, speech, publications (newspaper or yearbook, and regular English. This year English 5-6 was made compulsory and the course was changed from English literature to American literature. Although English 7-8 was not made compulsory, most of the Seniors took it. The department is headed by Miss Mildred Jacks.

Business

Students who wish to enter the business world are prepared for their field through the courses offered in business education. This department also finds job opportunities for those students wishing part time work. Typing and shorthand are some of the courses which will be a benefit to anyone interested in college. A student may advance from a beginning in general business to the many other courses, thus gaining a valuable background in business and clerical skills.

Mr. Harley King watches Sue Brink and Sharon Pierce work their machines in his business machines class.

Industrial Arts

Teenagers of today are homemakers and husbands of tomorrow. North High's Homemaking and Industrial Arts departments do their best to prepare our students for these important jobs. Child Guidance, Human Relations, and Arts and Crafts are just a few of the many courses made available. Miss Norma Sayer heads the Homemaking department and Mr. Bert Belluzzi is the head of the Industrial Arts department. Mr. Draper heads the Projection department. His many student assistants show all of the films at North. It has been said that one picture is worth a thousand words, and this department helps to prove this true.

Mr. Clark, who previously taught biology, has now been transferred to supervising five periods of study halls.

Services

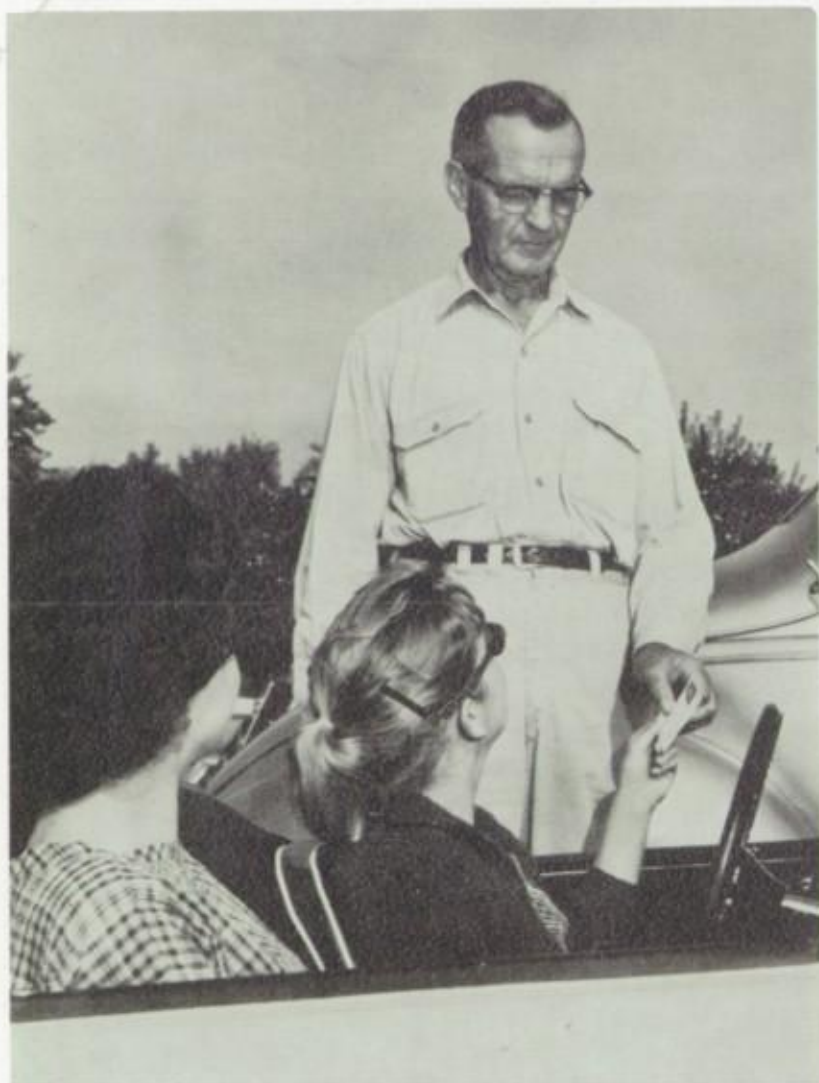

Mr. Lon Simmons, known to most of us as "Jungle Jim" is in charge of the parking lots. At noon he also checks lunch passes.

To make the most of our education, our school has a well-equipped library. Mrs. Rowan, head librarian, is ably assisted by Miss Lembke, Mrs. Matthews, and the student assistants that work there part time.

To the bookstore belongs the job of issuing all the supplies that the students may need. Mr. Brockett is in charge and his helpers are Mrs. Leedham, and Mrs. Maxwell.

Mrs. Maxwell seems to be very pleased as she hands over the Bookstore's receipts to Mr. Brockett.

Miss Coburn works as secretary in the principal's office while Mrs. Anderson keeps busy working at the switchboard.

Working in the Guidance office is Mrs. Dorothy Hirst. This office helps in counseling, and makes up the honor roll.

Mrs. Townsend works in the Activities office. It is in charge of student discipline.

The Registration office is in charge of registration and keeps attendance records.

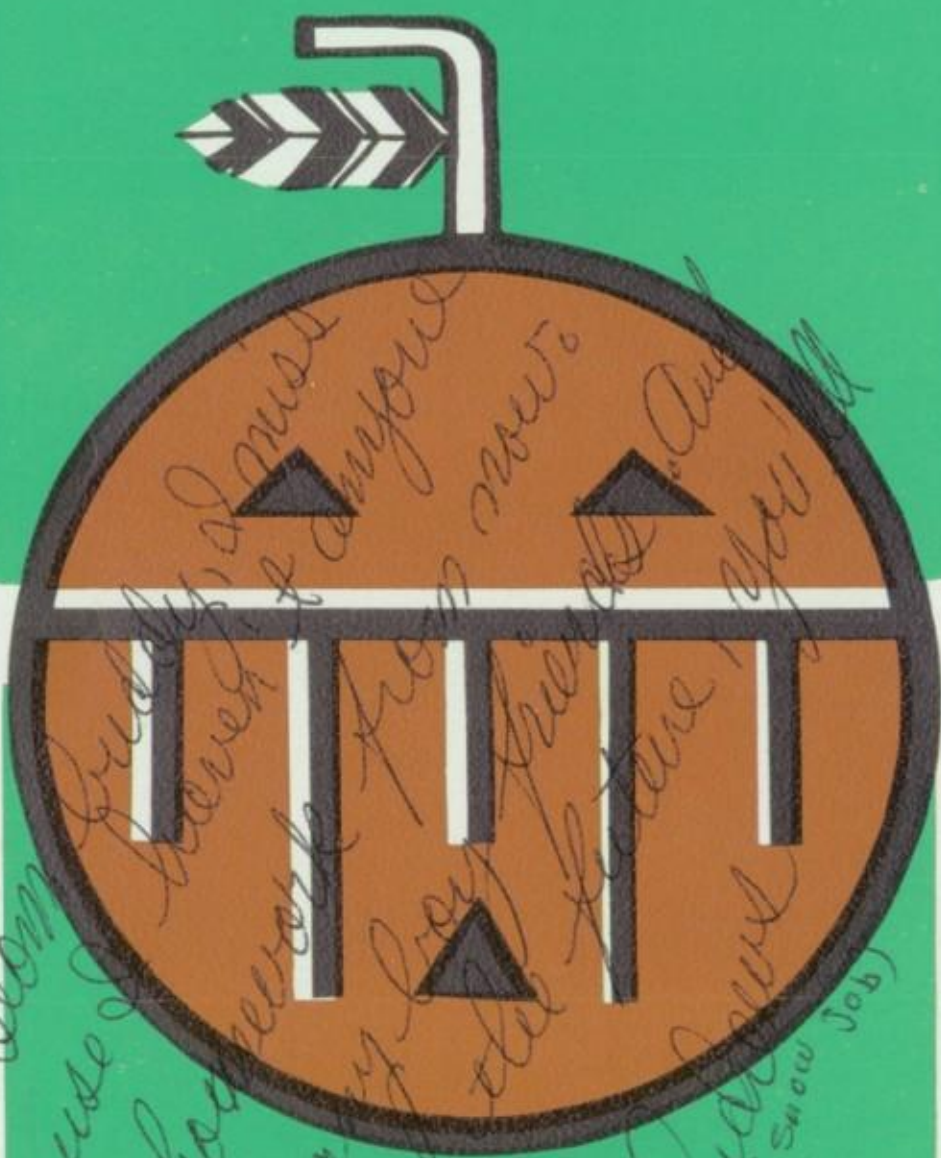

Mrs. Jane Buehman works in Miss McCormick's office, which is in charge of the bulletin and all of the girls' problems.

We owe a lot of thanks to these offices, for they do many valuable services.

English

While working on her senior research paper, Charlene Kripner uses the card catalogue.

Charlotte Sydbom translates a French sentence for Darryl La Pointe.

North High's English classes include English literature, American literature, Business English, grammar, and composition. Thus, when a student graduates he has both cultural and practical knowledge of this language.

Grammar and literature, along with book reports, are stressed in freshman English classes. Julius Caesar, along with other plays, is read in sophomore English. Sophomores study grammar, too. Juniors study American literature. Included in this are the works of Whitman, Poe and Steinbeck. Seniors analyze famous novels such as The Robe, Cimarron, and How Green Was My Valley.

For the student planning to enter the field of business, a great deal can be learned in a business English class.

Studying English literature are Dennis Zohn, Eddie Shatto, Jack Ewald, and Vernon West.

Classroom Activities

Mike Recinos describes Guatemalan jewelry to Barbara Williams and Pat Proctor.

Mel Abert performs in speech class.

Diana Moorman prepares breakfast.

Tom Berray and Jimmy Peloso work out a detailed plan in technical drawing class.

Practical Arts

Beginning homemaking involves learning a great variety of skills; for example, modeling, grooming, and basic sewing and cooking skills. Girls say that they are surprised at what they can do. They develop a liking for sewing and home experiences. A sense of achievement is also acquired. There are also advanced homemaking classes.

Carol Kinnamon pours as Elaine Dohlman stirs.

Terry Day explains to Kent Delpier while Harold Coats works out a pattern.

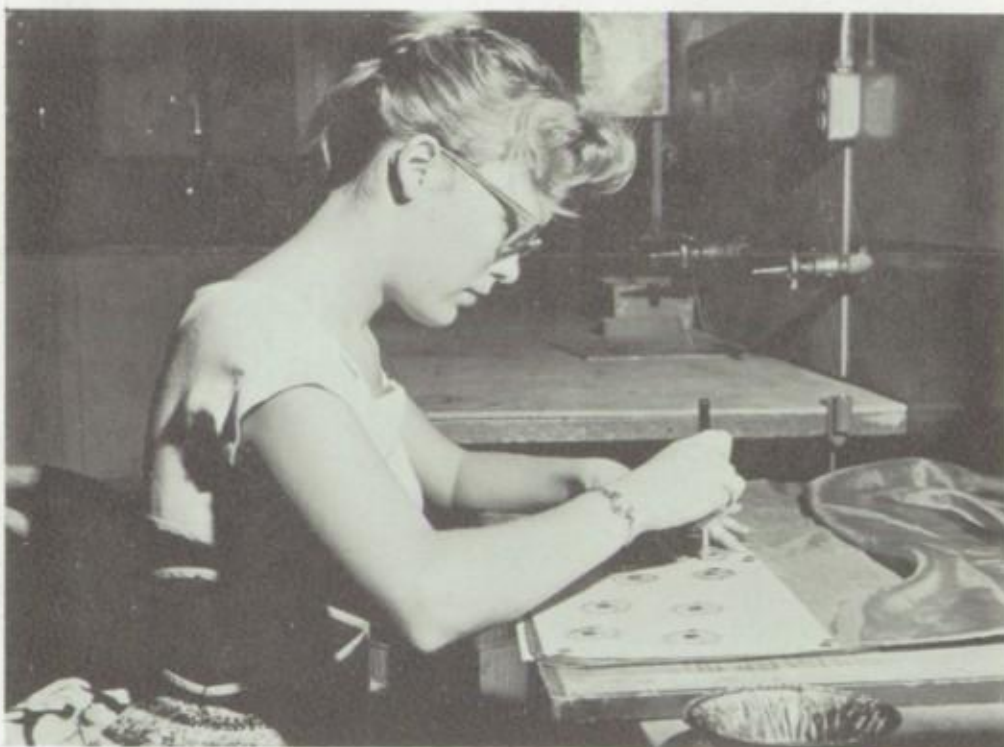

YEP HAROLD

Ted Basko tools a design in his arts and crafts class.

Arts and Crafts

Students enjoy technical drawing and arts and crafts classes. In these classes they learn basic principles of drawing scale modeling, copper enameling, and textile printing. Many of these skills can be used both now and later.

Marilyn Miller stencils a design on a piece of silk.

Evelyn Soderman works out a budget in economics.

Charlotte Sydbom, a foreign exchange student, talks to her parents in Sweden.

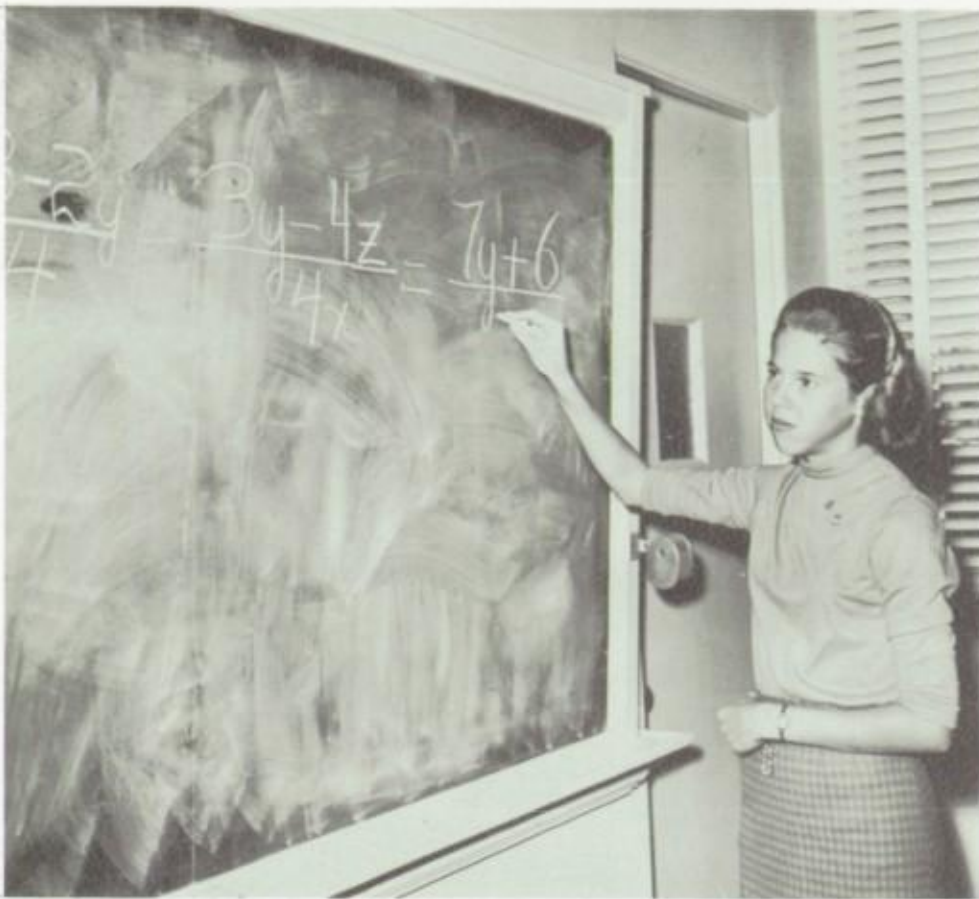

International relations' students keep up with current events. Jean Zuehlke and Karen Simmons are reading a recent newspaper.

Social Studies

Social studies involves learning about people and places in the past and present. In our modern life this is very important, for, to make use of experience, we need to know past mistakes.

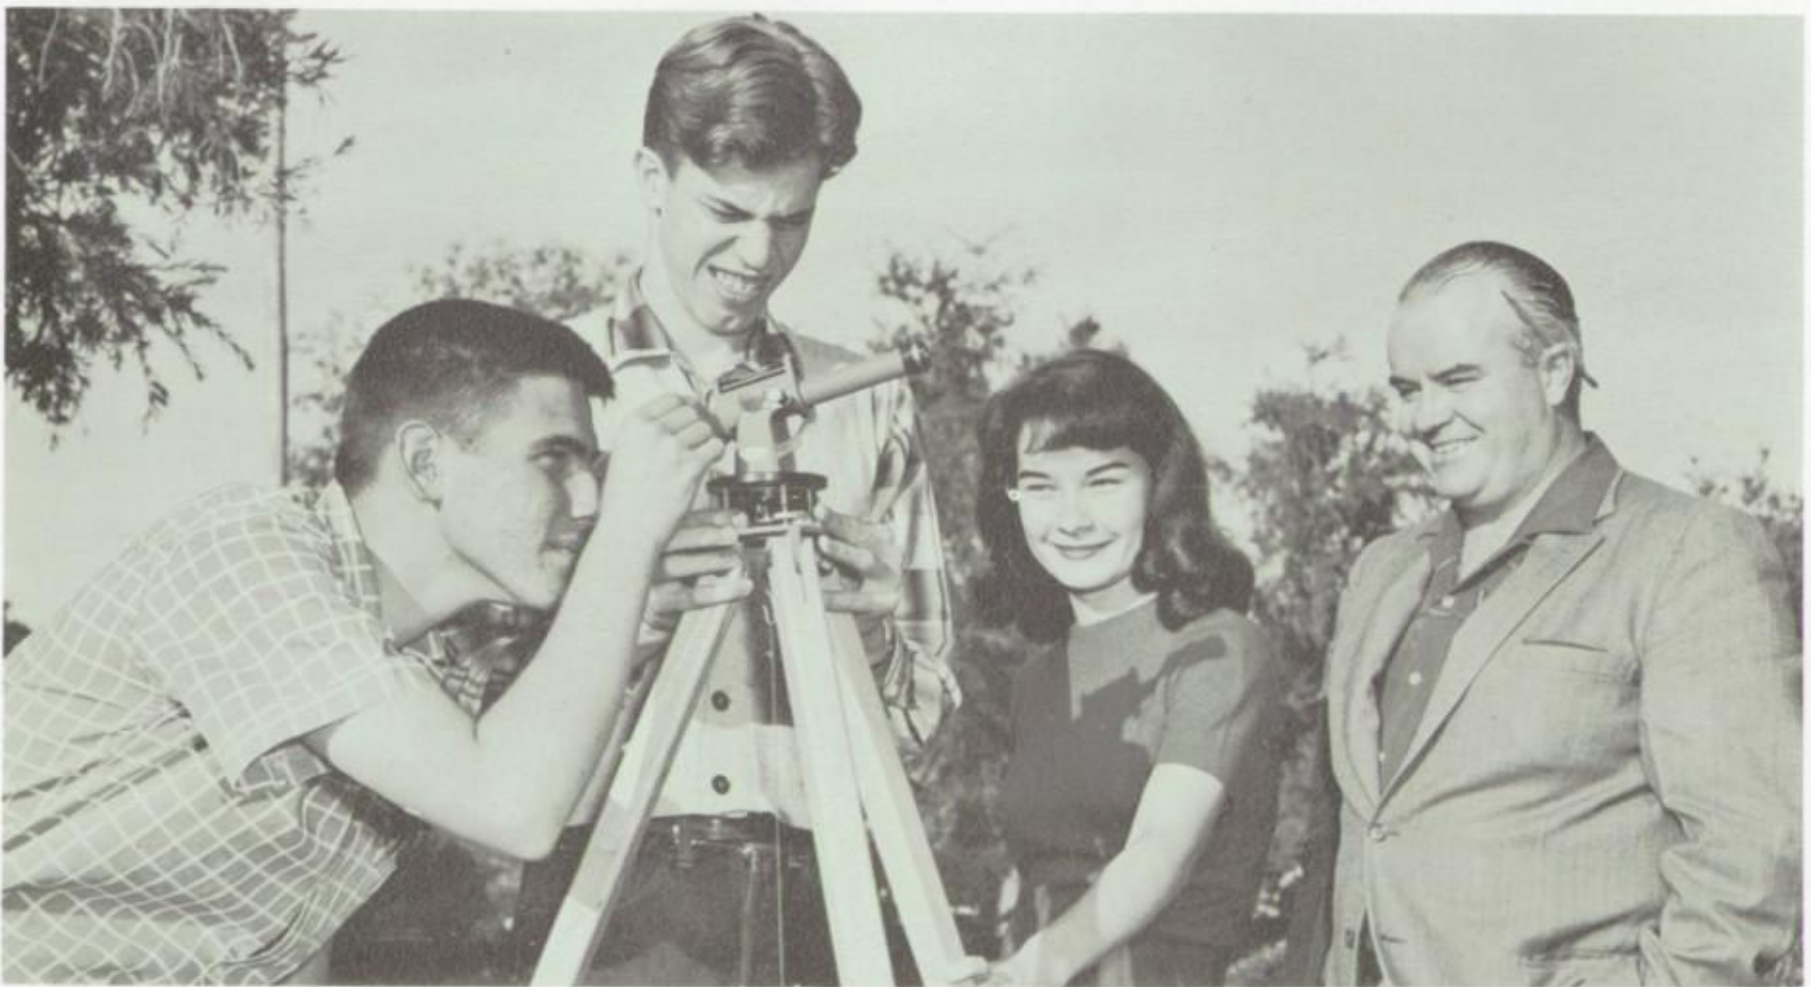

American government and economics, American history, international relations, and world history are all designed to make us better citizens.

Math

Sally Neely works out ap roblem in algebra class.

Every student must take two years of math in order to graduate. He has a choice of general math, business math, algebra, plain geometry, solid geometry, or trigonometry. These courses are becoming more important as college entrance requirements go up. There is an ever-increasing demand for graduates who are interested in entering the field of mathematics.

Working with a transit are Alex Levin, Riley Sinder, and Dale Parker. Mr. Inman, trigonometry teacher, looks on.

Human Relations

Senior students learn different ways of making their lives more successful in human relations class. Family life is studied. Not only their present family, but also their own future family.

Students find solutions for the many problems that may arise all during one's life. Happy living takes planning.

Shiela Le Boyer and Linda Saxman carve out a jack-o-lantern in class.

Suzanne Cosenza has a serious discussion in playschool.

Charlene Kripner, Ardith Peters, Dorothy Kurce, and Judy Bundy have fun during a break in human relations' class.

Playschool

A part of human relations is learning about children, their care and guidance. Little children are brought to North to take part in playschool. The students work with the children, play with them, and observe them.

This experience helps students get along better with their brothers and sisters and better understand their children.

Linda Light helps a playschool student down from the play equipment.

North High had four finalists in the National Merit Scholarship test. They were Alex Levin, Yolanda Leonard, Mary Hearne, and Riley Sinder.

Merit Scholars

Every spring a series of five tests are given to many students in their junior year of high school. It is the first screening device of the scholarship program.

The top-scoring 10,000 students become semi-finalists. The next 25,000 students receive letters of commendation.

The semi-finalists take a second examination. If they do as well on the second exam as they did on the first, they become finalists. Certificates of Merit showing their good performance are given to these students. All finalists are candidates for Merit Scholarships. The scholarship winners are not only judged on their school records, but also on their out-of-school activities.

North High was very fortunate this year in having four finalists. They are Mary Hearne, Yolanda Leonard, Alex Levin, and Riley Sinder.

Gayle Edlund not only is a valedictorian, but also won the Elks Most Valuable Student Award.

Future Leaders

Glenn Wolfe was named salutatorian with a 1.058 grade average.

Jan Taylor won the Phoenix Elks Leadership Award, and placed second in state competition.

Valedictorians for the class of 1960 are Gloria Pogson, Gayle Edlund, Yolanda Leonard, and Barbara Beatty. They had 1.0000 grade averages.

Modern Dance

Taking part in the Christmas program are Jackie Stewart and Mary Jane Stewart.

Virginia Jenkins and Judy Zamora do one of the many, varied routines in modern dance class.

Sue Sorenson and Betty Knight play the part of mice in the modern dance Christmas program.

Santa Claus's workshop came to life on December 17, 1959, when North High's modern dance class gave their annual Christmas program. At this time students and parents saw class members perform original compositions.

From this year's tryouts talented girls were obtained. During class the learn different techniques and how to apply them in group numbers and solos.

The spring recital of this year was "Through the TV Camera Eye." Various television programs were portrayed through their different theme songs.

Driver Education

Every day more and more Americans are purchasing cars, and more people are dying while they are driving these cars. Owning a car is not enough; you must be able to drive it correctly.

Traffic laws are learned in driver education classes. Safety is also stressed. Movies and pictures are shown to illustrate what the result of an accident might be. Devices are also used in order to check depth perception, visual acuity, and reaction time. These test the students physical and mental ability which is necessary for driving.

Actual driving practice can be obtained in behind-the-wheel training. A student drives a dual-controlled car. An instructor is along to advise him. After a few weeks practice, the student is eligible to take the required test.

Mr. Pace shows Mike Lowery how to test his depth perception in driver-ed class.

Mr. Anderson shows Shiela Bell how to shift.

Carol Benjamin tests her field of vision.

Search for Tomorrow

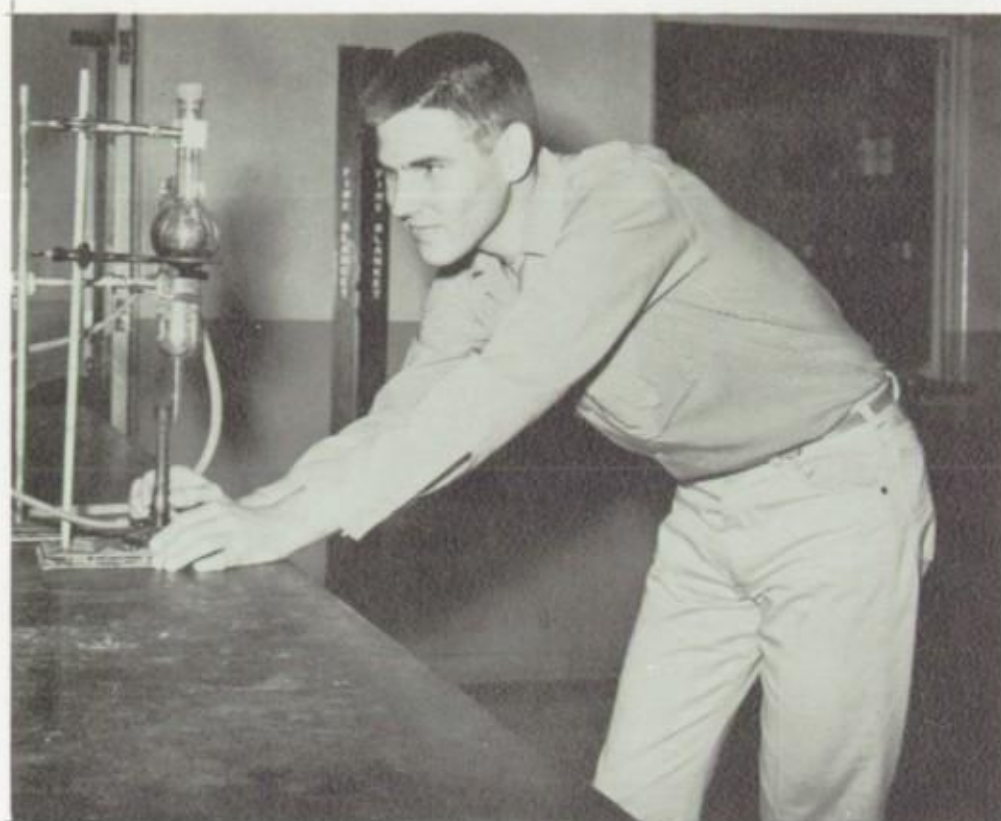

Yolanda Leonard worked with chromatography for her Westinghouse project.

Every year the Westinghouse Search for Tomorrow contest is held. In the past years North High has had many winners. This year was certainly no exception. There were five finalists from our school. They were Gayle Edlund, Jerry Gant, Yolanda Leonard, Alex Levin, and Riley Sinder.

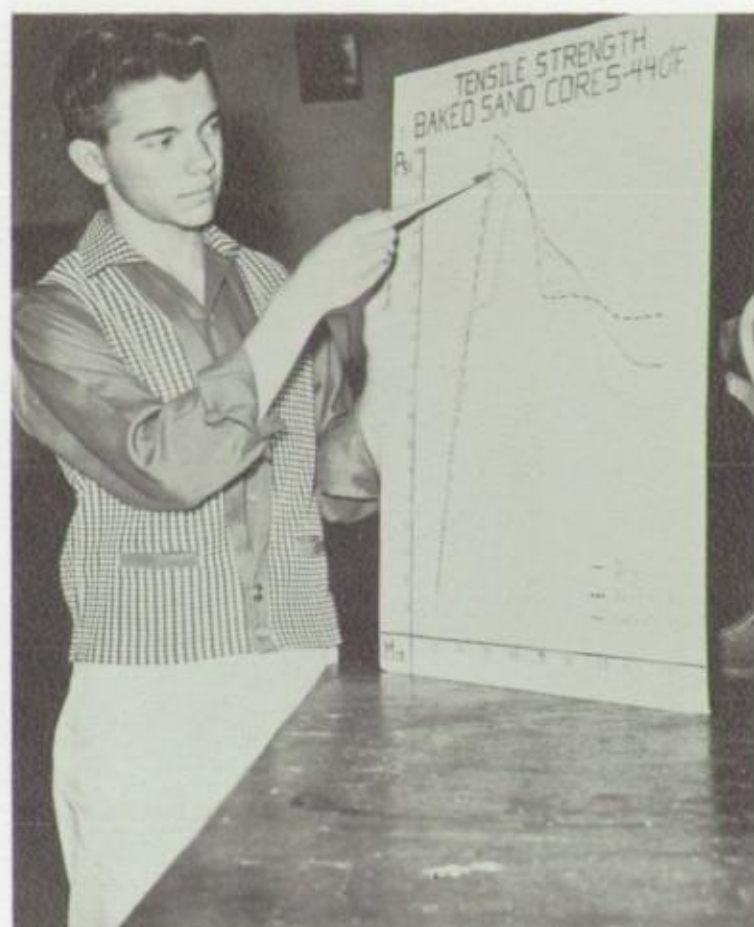

Gayle placed second in the state. She won $250 and a trip to Washington, D. C. in national competition. Her project was detecting the substance in Arizona peas and beans which has the ability to clump human red blood cells.

Riley Sinder, Yolanda Leonard, Gayle Edlund, Jerry Gant, and Alex Levin were finalists in the Westinghouse Search for Tomorrow contest.

Gayle Edlund asks Mr. Brown, chemistry teacher, a question about her experiment.

Riley Snider will admit that chemistry can be an absorbing subject.

Sonny Stires, Randolph Sterna, and Eric Thomas look at an interesting bone structure.

Olivia Bustos takes a look into the microscope.

Glenn Wolfe and Jerry Gant work out experiments in science seminar class.

What is it? Jeri Leubben ponders as she looks at a bone.

Sciences

Biology classes are very interesting, if you don't have a weak stomach. Students learn about plants and animals. They perform experiments including dissection and microscopic study. Many students prepare for future jobs in the growing field of science through these varied activities.

Chemistry is a basic science and therefore it is a very necessary subject. It is needed in almost every kind of scientific study. Modern developments in chemistry affect us all.

Kregg Bodily and Dick Blue are deeply engrossed in their work for biology class.

Claudia Hoover and Bernie Weber study bone structures.

Marie O'Keefe shows how brave she is, while she dissects a worm.

Ray Schwimmer has a difficult time obtaining a drink of water.

Albert Gerbens, Jerry Gant, and John Germroth discuss the experiences that they have had throughout the day.

Blind A For Day

On February 12, 1960, the annual "blind for a day" experiment was held. Physics students, under the direction of Mr. Gilleland, wear blindfolds all day. After this experiment students appreciate their sight more. They become aware of the fact that if something did happen to their eyes, they could get along. Another important result of this experiment is to learn how to treat blind people.

Stanley Lane guides Mary Beinfang to her class.

Sandy Tarr and Mr. Gilleland are amused as they watch Sharon Sabine try to eat her lunch.

David Menne discovers that a parking lot is a dangerous place if you can't see.

Student Body Officers

Essential to the well-being and advancement of any student body are its officers. North High has good reason to be proud of both its school and officers for the 1959-60 year.

Steve Cordon carried out the duties of the president. Vice president, Jan Taylor, presided over the student council meetings in the absence of the president. Highty Christy, treasurer, was in charge of the student body election and the necessary bookkeeping. Pat Phelps and Anne Ashely shared all the secretarial duties.

Membership consisted of one Chief Justice elected by the student body, two senior judges, two junior judges, and one judge each from the sophomore and freshman classes.

All behavior of the North High Mustangs is governed by the Honor Code: the honor student is honorable in his conduct towards others, conforms voluntarily to the traditions and regulations of the school, and is present at classes unless serious reasons prevent him from being there.

In the hands of the members of the Student Council rested the responsibility for a smooth run North High.

The membership of this organization consisted of one representative from each homeroom, Student Body officers, Honor Court Judges, one member from each standing committee, and the executive officers. To them was given the authority to develop policies, set standards, and make and enforce necessary rules related to student activities.

Chosen for their leadership, the Council members expressed their ideas in defense of or in opposition to the many measures that were brought up, such as constitutional amendments, music in the cafeteria, and the choosing of D. J.'s to play the records, and money raising projects which included money for our representative to the White House Conference.

Service Organization

Extending a helping hand to such worth while community projects and the Heart Fund, Cancer Fund, and the Foreign Exchange Fund were the goals of the Service Organization.

All students were given the opportunity to share in the service for others through their homeroom classes. Each homeroom chose a project from a given list of ones that had been approved by the sponsor and the elected officers of the organization.

One representative from each homeroom, a president, a vice-president, secretary, and treasurer composed the Service Organization. They met once a semester to discuss all the problems that occurred and to decide on projects.

Activities that students delighted in the most were the food actions, car washes, and pastry sales. The money was raised in the classrooms, and then turned over to the sponsor, who sent it to the designated organization.

Girls' League

Girl's League was ably presided over this year by the Girls' League Cabinet. This governing body was comprised of twelve members, president Billie Jo Hicks; vice-president Sheila La Boyer; secretary Judy Mahan; and treasurer Shelly Hyde. These girls were elected by the girls of the student body. Membership was also extended to the president and vice-president of each class council.

The annual Blue and Silver Ball, November Nocturne; a sports dance; and the Parisian Fashion Show, in which many of North High girls modeled clothes from a leading Phoenix store were sponsored by Girls' League. North High also had the honor of hosting the Girls' League state convention this year.

Social Committee

The Social Committee was in full swing throughout the entire year. Scheduling dates and approving social activities were only a few of the numerous duties that were carried out by this committee. In order to bring a more cheerful glow during the holiday season, the Social Committee decorated the Christmas tree in the library. At each game during the football season one goal post was decorated with red and blue and the other with the colors of the visiting team. The Social Committee worked many hours in order to provide similar services for the school.

Athletic Association Members are, Seated: Lou Kellogg, Coach Caldwell, and Lydia Dzambik. Standing: Mr. Chard and Maury Staples.

"Support Your Corral" has been the Corral Board's theme this year. An all out effort was made in trying to create a new interest in the Corral. Faculty and students composed the committee which helped plan many of the activities that were held in the Corral. Besides directing the Corral's upkeep, the committee enforced the necessary rules needed for good student conduct.

For a game of ping pong, a quick refreshing coke, or a convenient place to meet friends, the Corral was a popular after-school place for Mustangs.

in school affairs

Faculty, parents, and students worked together on the Cafeteria Board. They discussed the type of lunches which suited the student body best. The board made and enforced rules necessary for the efficient serving of food at the least possible cost.

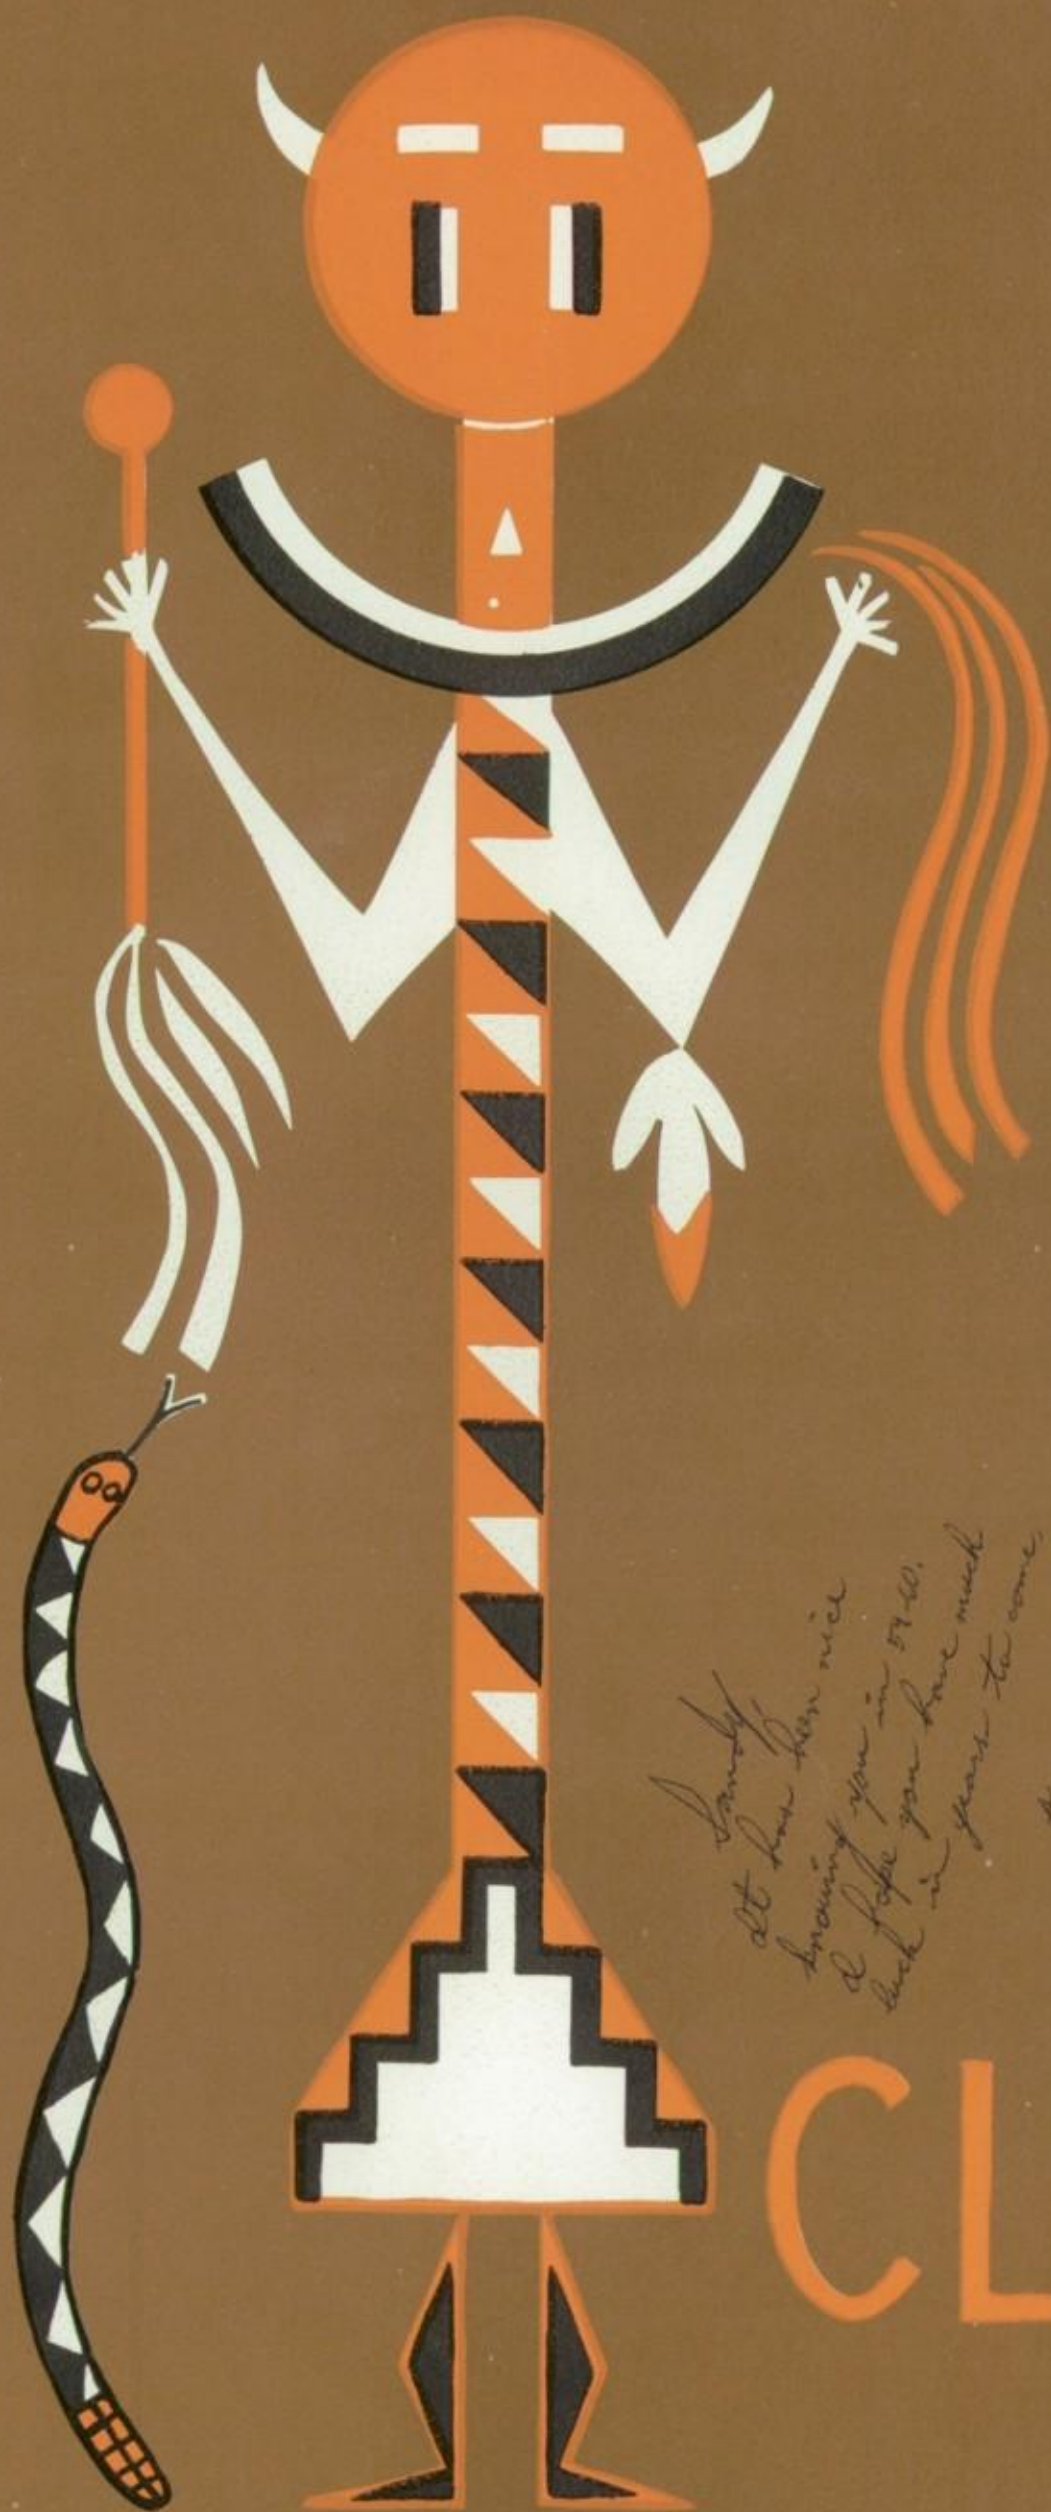

Three years ago the Cafeteria Control Board was organized to help keep the cafeteria an orderly place to eat. The Board was composed entirely of students who were on duty during both lunch periods. Members kept order in the cafeteria and corrected Honor Code violators. This was another organization that helped to keep North High a school supervised and directed by the students themselves.

Cafeteria Board Members are, Seated: Cindi Cuchan and Mr. West. Standing: Sheila Le Boyer and Ted Borek.

ORGANIZATIONS

A Cappella

One organization on our North High campus of which all students have a right to be proud is our A Cappella. The purpose of this group is to uphold the highest standards of choral music, and they accomplish this by presenting a wide variety of musical programs for the student body. Our annual Christmas assembly and an annual concert have always been presented by this group as a part of each year's activities. Often various civic groups in the Valley call upon the A Cappella for programs of their choral music. This provides good experience for each student as it helps acquaint them with performing before various groups.

Every year at North High a large-scale musical production is put on, and most of the music in this program is provided by the A Cappella. This year the musical was "Annie Get Your Gun".

An activity which was a highlight of the year for the A Cappella was a trip to San Mateo, California, as guests of Hillsdale High School.

Girls' Choir

Girls who are interested in the field of vocal music have an excellent opportunity to gain experience in group singing through the Girls' Choir. One of the purposes of this organization besides providing performance experience is to familiarize each girl with all the different phases of music.

North High's Girls' Choir, under the direction of Miss Enloe, joined forces with the choir of Central High in a concert which was given November 3. At Christmas they participated in the Christmas Concert with North's A Capella Choir, and in March they presented their annual Spring Concert. In May the group took a trip to Tucson to attend the Music Festival which proved to be a very informative and educational occasion.

Betty Mintz and Dianne Post enjoy practicing badminton.

Badminton Club

The Badminton Club, sponsored by Miss Breneman, worked hard this year to learn and practice techniques and skills in badminton. They developed team play by experience in tournaments within the club.

Varsity badminton games were played with the other Phoenix high schools. They also participated in the Annual High School Badminton Tournament held at A.S.U.

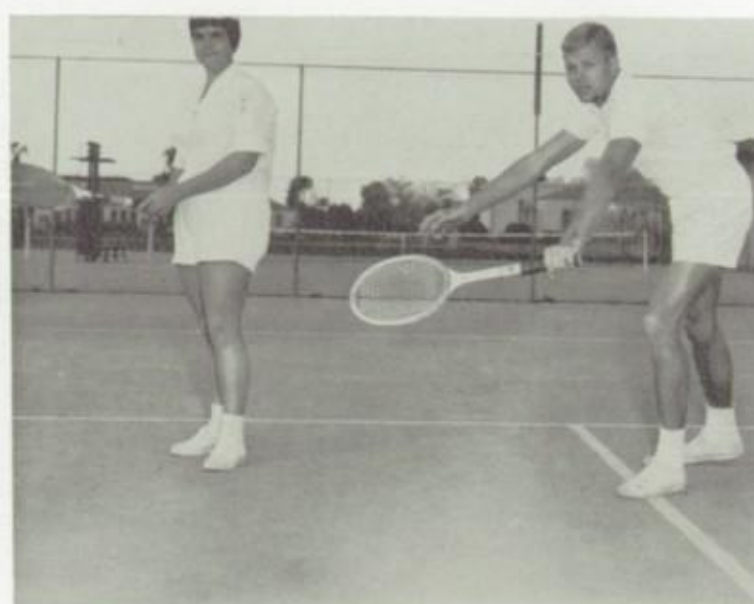

The members of this club also played badminton just for fun. They also made some research into the subject of the history of badminton in different countries all over the world.

Representing North High on school teams and playing tennis for fitness, fun, fellowship, and recreating are the objectives of the North High Tennis Club. All members were on the Varsity, Junior Varsity, and Freshman Tennis teams. The sponsors were Mr. Horne and Miss Wilkinson.

Throughout the year they participated in matches against other schools and among themselves. They also sponsored an annual tournament for the thirteenth year. All of the members maintained membership in the United States Lawn Tennis Association and the Southwestern Tennis Association.

Ice Skating Club

Officers of the Ice Skating Club: Marsha Ashley, Rick Reed, Joy Weber.

Mustangs who enjoy the sport of ice skating have the opportunity to join the North High Ice Skating Club. This active club, sponsored by Mrs. Weber, affords an opportunity for members to attain skills in free style and figure skating. Because there are students who might be interested in ice skating but have never tried it, the Ice Skating Club sponsors a class for beginners.

Other Phoenix high schools with ice skating groups often compete in skating contests with the North High group, and this gives the members an opportunity to learn more about skating competition.

The year's activities of the Ice Skating Club have often included various social events which were held between the high school groups who have skated with the North club.

Math Club

North High's Math Club offers a wider field of interest for students who want to increase their knowledge of mathematics and other fields surrounding the study of math. This past year the Math Club provided valuable experience for its members by attending the Arizona Mathematics Contest and the A.S.U. Mathematics Semniar which was in February on the A.S.U. campus.

Instructors from the mathematics department at A.S.U. were invited to speak before this active group and thus stimulate the interests of each member in the pursuit of higher mathematics.

Mr. Drinkwater, a math instructor himself here at North, was the sponsor of this worthwhile organization.

Nautilus

Nautilus Scientific Organization is North High's only science club. Its members pursue knowledge in the areas of science, philosophy and mathematics. Field trips are taken once a month, and have included three trips to California, a hike in northern Arizona, and visits to the Computer Center at Tempe.

Each member has his own special interest and they take turns leading the discussions on their subjects. The main aim of the club is to stimulate the club members' interest in science and other relative fields.

Pep Club

Much of the school spirit on the North High campus this year was promoted by the Pep Club. A great part of the cheering at all the football and basketball games was led by the Pep Club members, who hold a special cheering section at football games just for this purpose. The school spirit aids a great deal in giving support to the players.

At the end of every school year the Pep Club presents trophies to North High athletes who have been chosen as recipients of the Outstanding Athlete Awards. These awards are the main projects which the Pep Club undertakes each year. In order to raise the money for these trophies, members sell such items as derbies, pins, and pom poms.

Stadium Club

Ushers at all of North High's home football games this year were members of the Stadium Club, which is organized mainly for that purpose. Any student at North is eligible to join, for there are no requirements other than that each member must be able to usher at one-half of the games, and attend at least one-half of the club meetings.

As their main club activity, the Stadium Club members sponsored a booth at the Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y Carnival. Mr. Hyink and Miss Wilkinson, the club sponsors, supervised this project as well as all the others.

Pep Club Officers: Ed Leonard, Marshal Pilkington, Linda Saxman.

Dennis Crowl and Eddie Cline enlarging prints.

All North High amateur photographers joined the newly organized Photo Club this year. Its purpose was to help provide organization, leadership, and inspiration for all interested students. Members of the club were often seen taking pictures of various sports dances and other school activities. Sponsors of the Photo Club this year were Mr. Williams and Mr. Kasold.

Several field trips were taken by the club after school hours throughout the year. The club members traveled to Flagstaff and Tucson to attend state-wide conventions. They also went to visit the Republic and Gazette and the Arizona Film Processing Company.

Press Club

Students of the Publications department, the Journalism department, and the Photography department are all eligible to join the Press Club. The members took several field trips along with the members of the Photo Club. They also traveled to Flagstaff and Tucson to attend the statewide Press Convention. Visits to the Arizona Film Processing Company and tours of the offices of the Republic and Gazette newspapers proved to be very informative for these students, who are interested in learning more about the press business and how it is run.

The Press Club was sponsored this year by Mr. Kasold, who was also a sponsor of the Photo Club and Quill and Scroll.

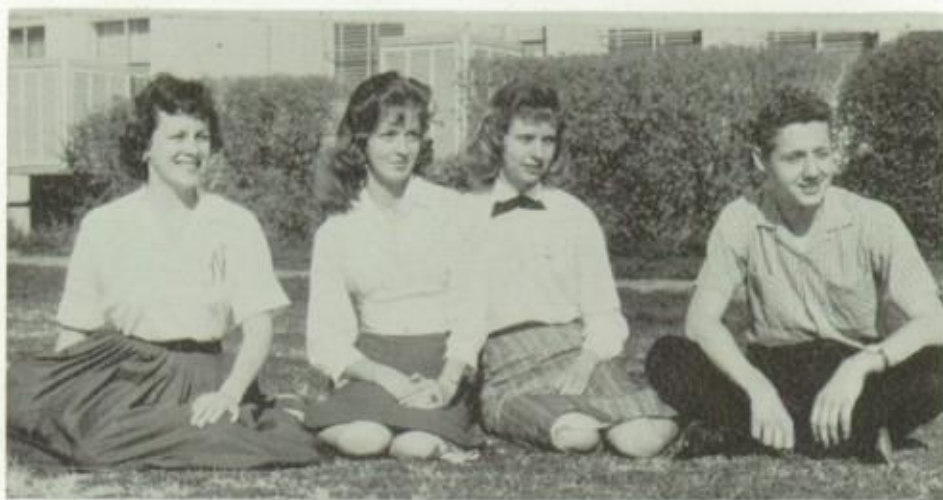

Popcorn balls were sold as a project to raise money on December 15.

F. B. L. A.

This past year the Future Business Leaders of America members undertook several money-making projects. Among them were selling popcorn during the lunch periods and having a bake sale. Mr. King and Mr. Palmer were the two sponsors of F.B.L.A. throughout this school year.

Since one of the main objectives of the club is to develop business leadership, field trips were often taken to different businesses in town, and the members often enjoyed the speeches and advice of Phoenix businessmen.

Other objectives of this school club include strengthening the confidence of the members in their work, and developing the character, patriotism, and citizenship of these students.

The most important undertaking of the F.B.L.A is to sponsor scholarships for the outstanding business students. Most of the money made from the projects goes toward this worthwhile cause.

National Honor Society

Mr. Carey and Miss Adams were the faculty sponsors of the National Honor Society at North High this year. This is a national club and members are a select group of only the best students. To be chosen for the club the students must excel in character, scholarship, leadership, and service. They must have held a very high grade average through their first three years in high school in order to be chosen.

One of the main projects of the club this past year was guiding at the Annual Pioneer Day, which is always held on our campus. The members also helped to provide a scholarship to a worthy senior in the club. At the very end of the year they chose the new members at the National Honor Society Tapping Assembly in which the new are installed and the old members leave.

Quill and Scroll

One of the highest honorary organizations for high school journalists is Quill and Scroll. This is an international society which is represented in high schools all over the world.

There are certain qualifications which must be met in order for a student to be eligible for Quill and Scroll here at North High. He must have worked on either the school paper or annual, and he must be a junior or senior in the upper one-third of his class.

Mr. Miller, who teaches publications was the faculty sponsor of Quill and Scroll this year.

New members made up the largest part of Quill and Scroll this year. The only former members were Yolanda Leonard, Barry Lerner, and Mary Hearne, who are also the main officers of the organization.

Parnassus

Parnassus, the highest mountain in mythical legends, is the name of the highest club at North High. Members are selected for this club for their outstanding grades at semesters. This club helps to promote greater interest in scholarship and to provide opportunities to students for service. Miss Adams and Mr. Carey were the two sponsors.

The A.B.C. members are: Virginia Robinson, Shirley Click, Lnda Light, Linda Barfoot.

A. B. C. and Legio Honoris

Third and fourth year Latin students were scarce this year, but they formed a hard-working club. The official name of the club is Amicae Bonae Ciceronis. Translated, this means, "good friends of Cicero." Through the year these pupils translated Cicero's four operations against Catiline. They also went into Ovid's poetry and tried to write some original poetry as a club project.

Legio Honoris, the Latin Club on North High's campus, is sponsored by Mrs. Mariott. Mustangs who have had two or more years of Latin are eligible to be in this club. Students who wanted to supplement their knowledge of Latin found Legio Honoris a valuable organization this year. Activities for the past year included a debate, a Latin play, Christmas carols, a Roman banquet, and a chalked demonstration of Julius Caesar's camp. Purchasing a base for the bust of Caesar and a classic picture for the Latin classroom were the two projects that Legio Honoris completed.

Tri Lytz Tri-Hi-Y

Working together to uphold high standards of service for home and community, as well as striving to enrich the lives of the members is the main objective of Tri Lytz. This year the members have carried out this objective fully by working on many charitable projects including the Heart Fund, Cystic Fibrosis, and the Valley of the Sun School.

Activities which were planned mainly for the entertainment of the members were a progressive dinner, a trip to the snow and a few slumber parties. Joint meetings with Hi-Y clubs of other schools provided an additional interest in the meetings.

Under the supervision of the faculty sponsor, Miss Enloe, and as a service to the school, Tri Lytz members stenciled letters on the auditorium floor.

These Mustangs represented North High by attending the State Band Contest and by marching in various parades.

Mrs. Macon, the club's sponsor, supervised the various projects which the members chose in order to raise funds for the club treasury. Pickles were sold on campus to students during the lunch periods and also appointment books were sold.

Not all of the Phi-Tyo's projects were for raising money. Members chose to participate in the city-wide Dress-a-Living-Doll project which is a charity set up to help clothe underprivileged children.

Art Staff

Students from North High's art department made up this year's art staff, and all of the art work found in the Hoofbeats was designed by them. These capable students, along with Mrs. Maccon, who supervised and assisted with the art work, deserve a great deal of appreciation for their contributions to the annual.

Photographs

Photographs make up the largest part of any annual, and they must be of good quality in order to keep the body of the annual interesting. Hoofbeats has been fortunate this year in having an excellent staff of photographers. A great deal of hard work and extra time must go into the taking and printing of photographs, and the photographers have been very cooperative in doing the work. All members of the annual staff wish to thank the photographers along with Mr. Williams, head of the photography department, for their work.

Pom Pon Squad

Pretty, peppy Pom Pon Girls with their new, unusual, and fascinating routines brought about the wonderful school spirit. Adding life and color with their happy smiles and colorful costumes, they never failed to please the student body at the sports events.

Under the careful supervision of Mrs. Phelps, the Pom Pon Girls practiced every day and soon had the quick, alert precision of a well trained professional dance troupe. During half-time, that extra touch of perfection to the formations was easily seen.

Co-Captain and captain of this year's cheerleading squad were Ardie Peters and Isabel Blanco.

Buckley Blake, Bonnie Rogers, and Charlotte Sydbom listening to a phonograph.

It was a privilege and an honor for North High to have as one of its foreign exchange students pretty and vivacious Charlotte Sydbom. Overcoming the language barrier, Charlotte proved to be not only an excellent scholar but an outstanding person, whose bubbling personality soon attracted the attention of everyone on campus.

Phoenix, Arizona, was an entirely different atmosphere from her native land, Sweden, but Charlotte adjusted to the new environment very well. There were many customs and traditions which were strange to our Swedish visitor, such as the eating of tacos and tortillas, drive-in movies, and no snow during the Christmas season.

Because of patient observations and new experiences, Charlotte will bring back to her country a new understanding of America, especially Phoenix, Arizona, and North High.

Exchange Students

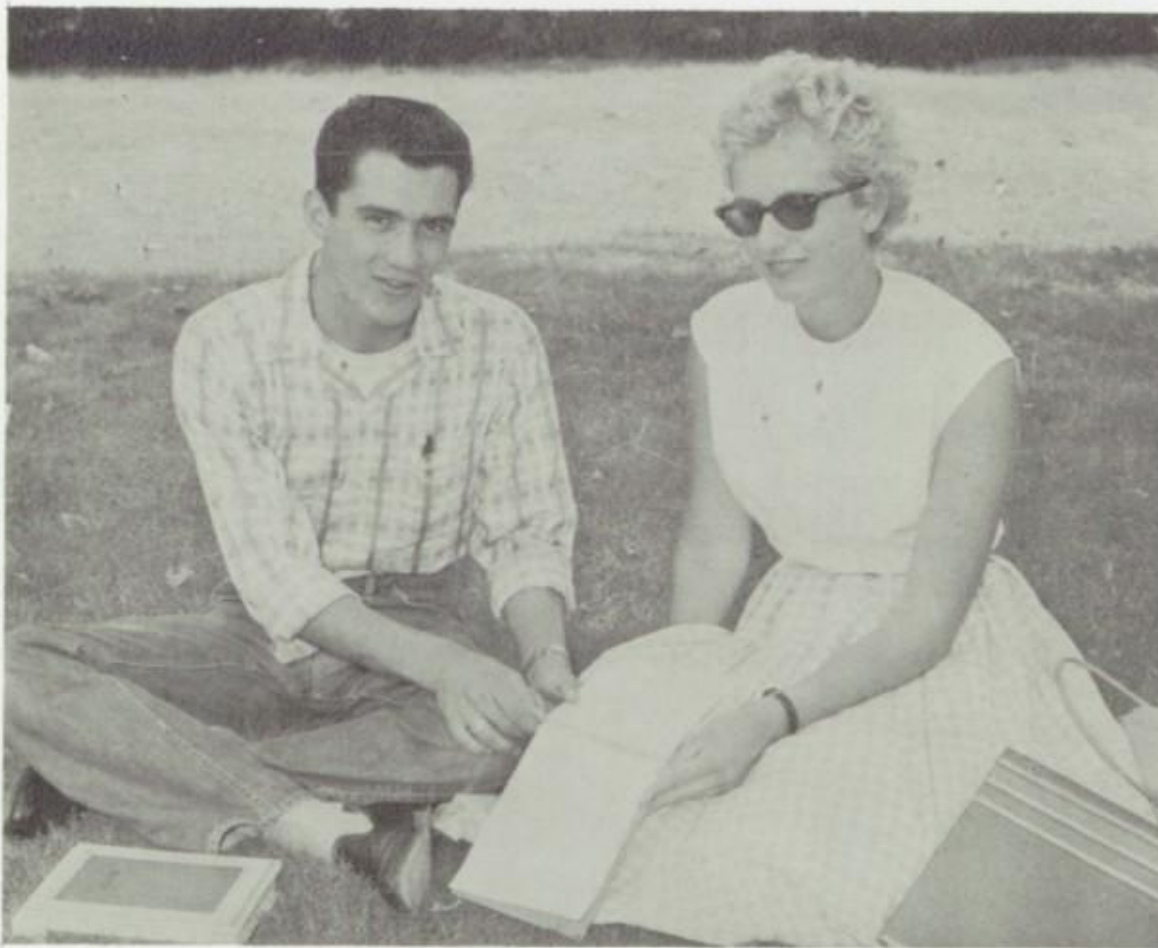

North High will always remember Mike Recinos, foreign exchange student. This has been the first year that North was able to host two foreign exchange students, and the handsome senior from Guatemala proved to be an asset. Mike shared his knowledge about his homeland, its traditions, education, and entertainment with all.

While attending North, Mike was very active. He participated in many assemblies and various clubs.

North hopes that Mike will never forget the happy times, and the friendships that have been shared with him.

Sandy, Well Kid, you've been through a lot this year, and you've come out of it on top. I think, Sandy, after knowing you now for over a year, you're a real great girl. I wish only the best for you. I hope you got it. Good luck always, Sandy & get in touch with me.

Tryouts were held and the girls were chosen on their poise and ability to model.

Modeling were: Seniors, Gayle Edlund, and Judi Mahan. Juniors, Judy Drage, Frances Gonzalo, Linda Sperry, and Barbara Williams. Sophomores, Jane Beck and Susie Polachek, and Freshmen, Debbie Redlick, and Judy Hicks.

The class of 1960 was proud when the "mosts" were announced. These members will long be remembered for their bustling activities during their four years of attending North High.

"Death Takes a Holiday"

After careful preparation by the cast and supervision by Mr. Weizer, drama coach, a tragedy was presented during the first semester.

Tender and tense scenes were beheld in the drama "Death Takes a Holiday." Death came to earth in the form of a man and fell in love with a girl.

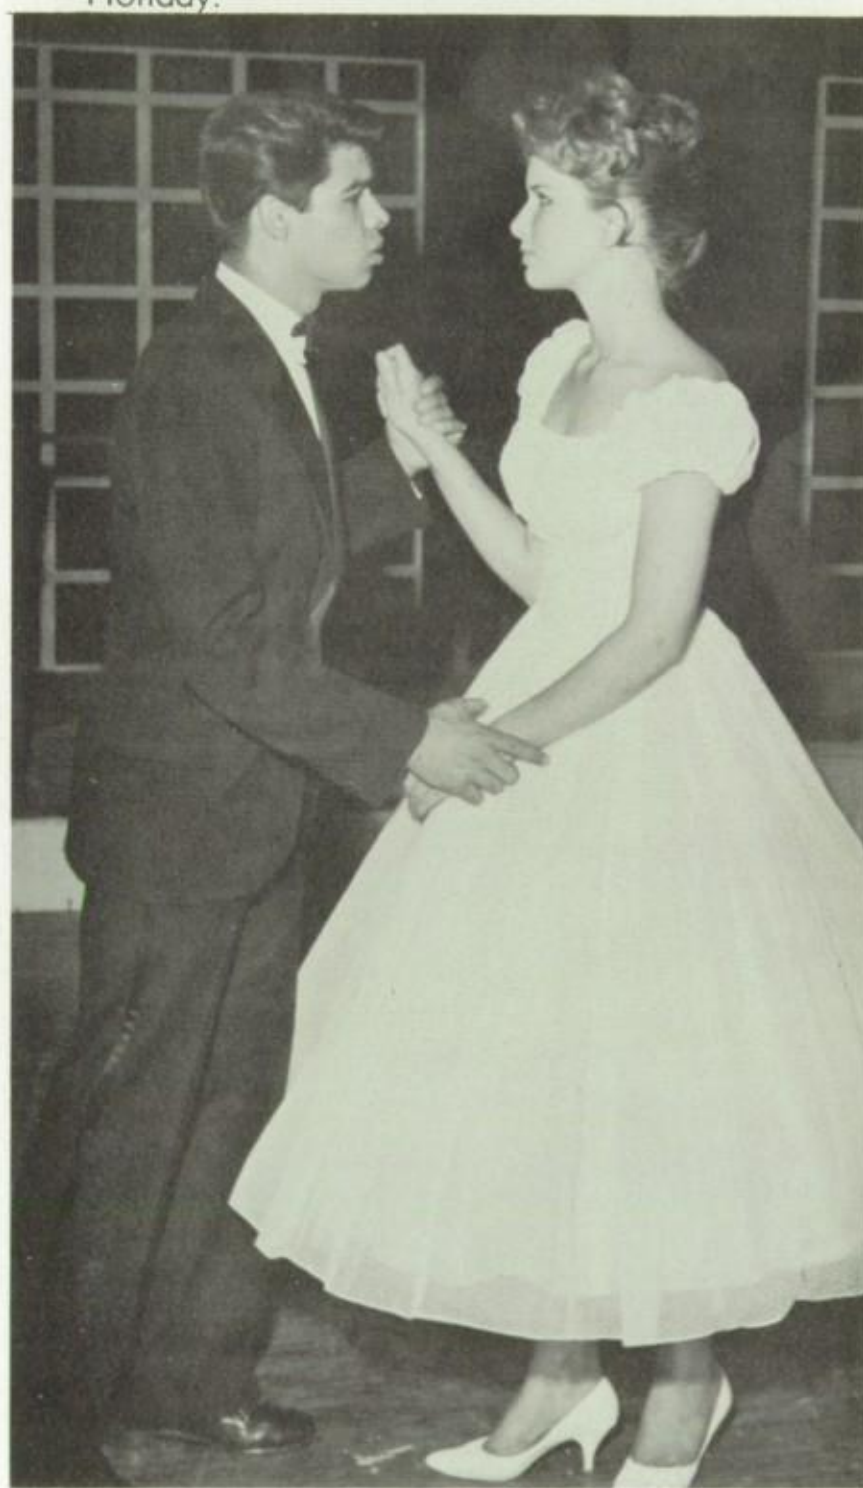

Actors and actresses are outstanding at North High, and they did not fail to perform outstanding portrayals as they drew the audience into the theme of the play. The entire drama was performed solely by the students who did various jobs of make-up, directing, lighting, scenery, and costuming.

Leads were given to Tom Basham, senior, and Cheryl Van Cleve, junior.

Supporting the leads were: Irving Dacks, Gay Hartwig, Tom Hasseries, Jackie Holzner, Lewis Schaflander, Phil Lucas, Pat Lumpkin, Pam Wright, Dennis Morrow, and Robert Oberly.

An assembly was presented to the student body in observance of Brotherhood Week. Those of different races, nationalities, and religions participated in a skit which expressed the need of tolerance for all mankind.

Anytown, U.S.A., which was the scene of the skit, gave an opportunity for Jon Cohen and Tom Basham to present speeches on tolerance. Linda Winters also sang "One World." A friendship circle was formed onstage to complete the program, and the cast sang many songs that expressed world friendship and love for all mankind.

During the first semester the seniors presented their annual talent assembly. The theme was centered around the daily Mustang Bulletin, which is read in each homeroom class during second period. Included in the skit were such acts as a combo, a dance, and a comedy act.

Enlivening the Senior Assembly with a jazz number were Nickie O'Quinn and Kent Johnston.

In accordance with old traditions the Junior Class presented for graduating seniors the annual Junior-Senior Prom. Champagne and Lace was held at the Student Union Building in Tempe during May to celebrate the on-coming graduation. A dance band and tentertainment were provided. This final farewell was indeed a memorable event to those who had completed their high school career.

Doug Wesley and Connie White ascend the stairs of the Student Union.

Doug and Connie pause a bit during the dance.

Football

"Into each life some rain must fall," and this seemed to be the year for the North High Mustangs. Despite a losing season, the Mustangs continued to fight for every game. We gained hard earned experience this year which will be vital to the team of '61.

Our rebuilding season was conducted under the auspices of our new coach, Pete Clark. Coach Clark comes highly recommended from Eloy, Arizona.

Leading the Junior Class this year is Mike Aarni, president; Jim Beauchamp, vice-president; and Mickey Narmi, secretary-treasurer. LaVerne Wilson is serving as Girls League representative; Carol Bouvea and Barbara Ong are both serving as Honor Court judges for the Junior Class.

Under the guidance of these officers the Junior Class sponsored the talent show, the Junior-Senior Prom, and the Sadie Hawkins Day activities. They also sold class rings and pennants.

Mike Aarni somehow manages to combine being a good student and a good sportsman, along with his job as Junior Class president.

Strains of soft or lively music, light laughter, and dancing characterized the sports dance which the Junior Class sponsored earlier in the school year. These dancers seem to be having a wonderful time.

Hard working heads of the Sophomore class are Ted Borek and Russ Ashley.

For new money raising projects the sophomores sold white Mustang sweat-shirts and a new Mustang pin. They also sponsored a horror movie and a sports dance, called "Cupids' Caper", after a basketball game.

This year the Sophomore Class chose for their officers, Ted Borek, president; Russ Ashley, vice-president; Orlean Miller, secretary-treasurer; Gerry Gabay, Honor Court judge; and Diana Marek, is serving as Girls League representative.

Some to college...

some to work
Some to loaf - that's me!

We hope you will find a way to college, for your life will be fuller and richer if you do. For those of you who must enter the business world now, let us recommend that you open a savings account immediately - however small - at the Valley Bank.

As you progress in your business life, you'll need bank credit. And when a banker makes his first loan to young people, he is guided mainly by the banking record they have established in the past.

The Best of Luck to you this Fall in College! We look forward to you always. Love Margaret

Sandy,
It's been so much fun being in the club with all you kids. I've really learned a lot about people and I know it partly due to being in the club.
Be good and I'll see you around.

Love,
Barbara
B

Pearl (Sandy),
Kid, it's been so neat. I hope you and Mike last, you made a darling couple! She's not worth you did is just beautiful. Wish I could show the way you do. I wish all the goodie-bunches and remember - True Friends are like gems, yet more precious.
Your Patricia,
I see ya
Belle
